Monitoring and Evaluation of Development Sector
Feb 03-08, 2020
Programme Co-ordinators: Dr. Sridhar Telidevara & Dr. Surva Bhushan

Introduction

The need for development projects to remain on-course and the imperatives of generating measurable positive impact in the broader context of development underlines the importance of this program for development management professionals.

The size and the complexity of the project interventions, outputs, and outcomes, if, managed well for risk and deviations using Results Based Management Accountability framework, improves the likelihood of success of the project. This requires a participatory approach in planning, implementing, and collecting data on appropriate indicators to monitor the targets.
The competencies enhancement program also emphasizes evaluation communication to all the stakeholders of the projects for generating a better understanding of the status of the project through shared common knowledge. In the process of M&E the success stories get documented and problems are identified and recorded, either for effective redressal, or for avoidance of repetition.
